MORE INFORMATION

A large industrial facility, possibly a refinery or chemical plant, is shown at dusk. The scene is dominated by tall, cylindrical storage tanks and complex piping structures. The sky is a deep orange from the setting sun, and the facility's lights are beginning to glow. In the background, a body of water and distant mountains are visible. The foreground shows various industrial buildings and equipment, including a large building with a flat roof and several smaller structures. The overall atmosphere is industrial and serene.
